RE: Culturally and Linguistically Responsive Teaching Training and Classroom Coaching

The attached purchase order is provided for board consideration to continue and expand the implementation of Culturally and Linguistically Responsive Teaching (CLR) in District 15. The Department of Instruction, in cooperation with the Board Equity Committee, have partnered with Teacher Created Materials (TCM) to provide teacher training to increase efficacy in addressing the needs of our diverse student population. The Department of Instruction would like to continue to contract TCM to provide materials and training to teachers, specialists and leadership. Jane Addams Elementary and Winston Campus Junior High will continue their implementation, and Gray M. Sanborn, Lake Louise, and Virginia Lake Elementaries as well as Carl Sandburg Junior High will be added to the group of schools taking part in this important initiative.

CLR focuses the implementation of culturally and linguistically responsive teaching techniques and the experience for teachers consists of professional development materials, job-embedded coaching, workshops, and webinars. Culturally and linguistically responsive teaching validates and affirms students' home culture and language for the purpose of building and bridging to increase the prevalence school culture behaviors. TCM will continue to provide in classroom coaching, as well as workshops, and will continue to work closely with the district to tailor topics and content to meet our needs.

The total cost for this year-long professional learning for six schools is $566,000.02. The funding is provided via a combination of Federal Title I, II and III grant funds.
